MANUSCRIPT

Creating cloth is one of the oldest of human activities.
But what lies beneath the weave?

Manuscript is a series of patterns born from weaver's diagrams on paper - landscapes of geometry, works of art in their own right. The tremendous artistry behind the pattern creation for textiles such as Punjab's famous khes, and other similar weaves around the world, inspire striking, versatile and modern wall covering compositions. Clad with their graceful sense of texture, balanced symmetry and an India flavoured colour palette, ordinary spaces attain a sublime beauty.

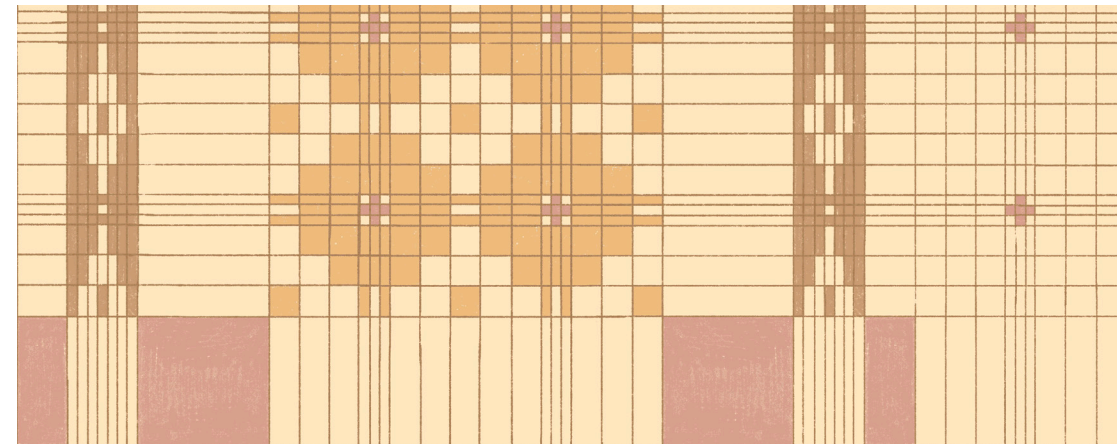

Hidden Harmony | Neem | W199LK57N75

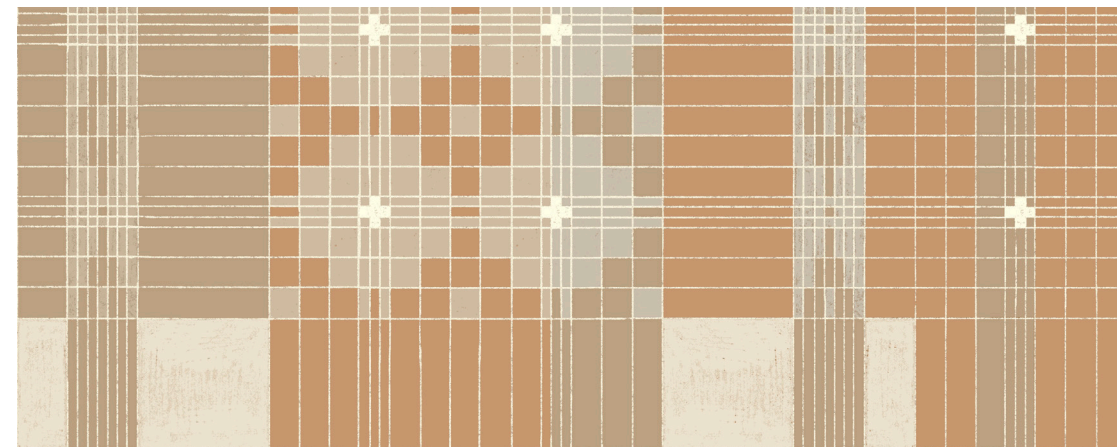

Closely related shades and geometric harmony please the eye, while handpainted lines like soft, loose threads of fabric offer a warm sense of texture. The versatile design allows plenty of decor freedom and any part of the home is uplifted by the pattern's charisma.

Circle game | Cashew | W199LK69N75

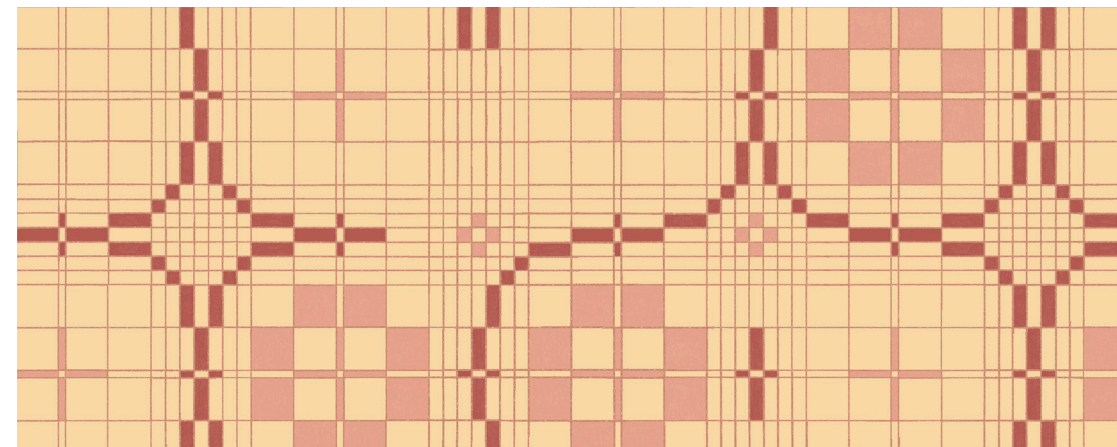

Elements are moved around and reordered. The charm is in the play. Shifting, unfinished circles capture the beauty of a pattern in flux, while simple square arrangements provide geometric flair. A wonderfully modern room experience is the result.
